

Re: Econ 310

From [REDACTED]
Date Fri 7/11/2025 12:58 PM
To Michael Nebor <Z1905650@students.niu.edu>

I appreciate you taking the time out to say this. My major change has me more confused to what jobs are available for me in the future so that gives me optimism. I also apologies for the late response, I've been having financial and living issues but it's improving. If the book looks correct, then I'll catch up before the 19th. Thanks for your grace, means a lot more then you know .

From: Michael Nebor <Z1905650@students.niu.edu>
Sent: Friday, July 4, 2025 11:40 AM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Econ 310

Hi Matt,

I'm glad you have decided to stay in the course and are interested in catching up with the material. I think this is an excellent course for you to take. The material focuses on both Finance and Economics and provides a high level yet thorough understanding of the financial system. I personally think this is a great course to give you the necessary foundation to prepare you for a career in business, especially banking.

The top version of the image looks correct. Details for the textbook are also in the syllabus. And there are instructions posted on blackboard to connect your account to blackboard for the syncing of grades.

I will extend week 1 and 2 and 3 deadlines to allow for you to catch up. You're immediate priority should be to obtain textbook access as that is necessary for completion of assignments.

Please be aware of future assignment due dates.

Additionally, I want to inform you that I expect the content of Week 4, opening Monday, to be the most challenging weeks content of the semester. After that week, I personally think the content becomes much easier.

Thanks,
Michael

Get Outlook for iOS

From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, July 4, 2025 10:52:50 AM
To: Michael Nebor <Z1905650@students.niu.edu>
Subject: Econ 310

Hello, at first I thought I would drop this class but I was unaware of the deadline . In the past week I've changed my major from business to Econ, so this class can indeed help me . Now I'm in catch up mode with my first class with my major change and feel behind. Can you please help me catch up within these four days ? I know the class moves fast and I'm already two weeks behind, but I'm a hard worker and can catch up fast if the opportunity presents itself . I also wanted to make sure this is the right book for the class and all that's needed to be bought.